2. Data collected

What data and how do we collect:

We collect your personal identification information: first and last name, email address, ID data, country (state), your company or professional profile link. Also we store commercial information and on rates, payments made/due/received and applicable billing reports and your materials and deliverables you have uploaded on the Website. You directly provide us with most of the data we collect. We collect data and process data when you:

- Register online or place an order for any of our services
- Voluntarily complete Project Assignment or project assignment.
- Use or view our website via your browser's cookies.

Like many web/app/software applications operators, we collect information that your browser sends whenever you visit the Website („Log Data”). This Log Data may include information such as your computer's Internet Protocol („IP”) address, your location(city, country), browser type, browser version, browser language and the pages of Website that you visit, the time and date of your visit, the time spent on those pages.

User-Generated Content and Portfolios

As part of the services provided via the Website, you may upload content such as images, text, and other materials that form part of your online portfolio ("User-Generated Content" or "Portfolio").

We may process and use such content for the promotional purposes as detailed in our Terms of Use. You may withdraw such consent at any time by contacting us via support email, and we will stop any future promotion.

3. Cookies

Like many websites, we use „cookies" to collect information. If you do not accept cookies, you may not be able to use Website.

Within the Website, cookies are used to facilitate features and functions which improve your browsing experience. They are also used to measure the performance of the website and how visitors navigate their way around. We use them to save your log-in information so that it will make your access to the website faster and easier.

Use of Third-Party Tracking Technologies and Your Consent

We use third-party tracking technologies such as the LinkedIn Insight Tag, Meta Pixel, and Google Analytics. These tools may collect personal and behavioral information such as your IP address, browser details, referring URL, pages visited, and engagement with our content. These technologies may track your activity across our site and other websites to provide analytics, ad targeting, and service optimization.

In accordance with the California Invasion of Privacy Act (CIPA), we require your explicit consent before these tools are activated. We use a cookie consent banner to obtain your permission prior to placing any non-essential cookies or enabling tracking technologies. You may manage or withdraw your consent at any time by adjusting your preferences via our cookie banner.

Additionally, some forms on our Website may use LinkedIn autofill features to populate your name, email, or profile information. This only occurs when you explicitly allow LinkedIn to share this data. You can opt out by declining LinkedIn form permissions.

Cookies are text files containing small amounts of information which are downloaded to your device when you visit a website. Cookies are then sent back to the originating website on each subsequent visit, or to another website that recognizes that cookie. Cookies are useful because they allow a website to recognize a user's device. Cookies do lots of different jobs, like letting you navigate between pages efficiently, remembering your preferences and improving the user experience. They can also help to ensure that adverts you see online are more relevant to you and your interests. Most recent web browsers allow control over the cookies saved through the browser setting.

4. Security and data storage

Website shall manage safely and only for specified purposes, the personal data you provide about yourself.

As per this Privacy Policy, as mentioned beforehand, Website does not share, trade, or sell any of your private information and will always strive to protect it, but if you choose the option of sharing your data stored on our website (this includes for example sharing the link to your portfolio or bid or by sharing your works for receiving feedback) on 3rd party software, websites or services you do it with your consent and at your own risk acknowledging that Website cannot be held accountable for what happens with the personal information after your share it outside of Website.

By reading the „Privacy Policy” and „Terms & Conditions” you acknowledge that you are guaranteed the rights provided by law, namely the right to information, access to data, the right of intervention, right of opposition, the right not to be subjected to an individual decision, right to go to court in case of violation of these rights. You also have the right to oppose the processing of your private data and to request their total or partial deletion.

The safety and security of your information also depend on you. Where we have given you (or where you have chosen) a password or access through a unique link on your email address for access to certain parts of the Website, you are responsible for keeping the password and the content in your email inbox confidential. We ask you not to share your password, the unique information that you will receive in your email account or the login link with anyone. We urge you to be careful about giving out information in public areas of the Website like message/comment boards.

The information you choose at your own will to share publicly will be accessible by everyone who has access to that particular software, website or service, therefore, we are not able to protect it. By default, all your data is private. However, if you share your application documents on social media through or without our web application, or share your application online on a unique URL, or by email, or in public places of Website, or by third-party software, websites or services, we cannot guarantee the privacy of the data you have used in those documents and Website cannot be held liable for what happens to it after you have shared it. Therefore, we would suggest being careful where and with whom you are sharing your documents or other professional information created/shared with the Website.

We have implemented measures designed to secure your private information from accidental loss and unauthorised access, use, alteration, and disclosure. All information you provide to us is stored on our secure servers behind firewalls and in our CRM system(s). Unfortunately, the transmission of information via the internet is not 100% secure. Although we do our best to protect your private information, we cannot guarantee the security of your private information transmitted to the Website. Any transmission of personal information is at your risk. We are not responsible for circumvention of any privacy settings or security measures contained on the Website. However, our team always strives to keep your information as secure as possible all the time.

5. Changes to This Privacy Policy

Occasionally we may, in our discretion, make changes to the Agreements. When we make changes to the Agreements, we will make sure to provide you with prominent notice as appropriate under the circumstances, e.g., by displaying a prominent notice within the Website or by sending you an email. In some cases, we will notify you in advance, and your continued use of the Website after the changes have been made will constitute your acceptance of the changes. Please, therefore, make sure you read any such notice carefully.

6. Your data protection rights

We would like to make sure you are fully aware of all of your data protection rights. Every user is entitled to the following:

The right to access – You have the right to request us for copies of your personal data. We may charge you a small fee for this service.

The right to rectification – You have the right to request that we correct any information you believe is inaccurate. You also have the right to request us to complete the information you believe is incomplete.

The right to erasure – You have the right to request that we erase your personal data, under certain conditions.

The right to restrict processing – You have the right to request that we restrict the processing of your personal data, under certain conditions.

The right to object to processing – You have the right to object processing of your personal data, under certain conditions.

The right to data portability – You have the right to request that we transfer the data that we have collected to another organisation, or directly to you, under certain conditions.
